New York—John W. Davis of West Virginia and Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, may be called a surprise ticket because it came after an unprecedented deadlock but it is nevertheless the logic of American politics. Without organization and management the two men who were selected to lead the democratic party from their honored positions. The delegates unopposed and unopposed took four ballots after they had been released from the shackles of pledges and instructions and almost unanimously came to their decision. But the reputation of both men—their integrity and their principles—had long been known to the delegates. John Davis was second choice in the minds of most of the men who came here pledged to McAdoo and a great many of those who supported Smith. In line with the formula set forth in these dispatches in the early days of the convention when a Mitchell Palmer's theory about second choices was explained, the nomination went this year as it did in 1920 and in 1912 to the men with the greatest second choice strength before the convention assembled.

Poincarist Opposition Grudgingly Admits Effectiveness of Herriot's Act
By Associated Press
Paris—The result of the conference between Premier Herriot and the British Prime Minister MacDonald, is generally well received in the press except by the Poincarist opposition although even "Petit Journal" is obliged grudgingly to admit that M. Herriot more effectively defended the French cause than in the pipe-to-pipe conference at Chequers. He concludes, however that "the Chequers chain is loosened. It is not broken."

BRYAN A PROGRESSIVE
Mr. Davis was about as widely advertised a personality as any before in the convention. Gov. Bryan of Nebraska had made a profound impression in the west as a Progressive. The leaders knew that Mr. Bryan had carried Nebraska for the Democrats in the last election by $50,000 and that this year he had been nominated for governor in the primaries not only by the Democratic party but by the Farmer-Labor party. He must now withdraw from the gubernatorial race but will serve out his term as governor to the first of the year. What the west has sought from both parties has been recognition. The Bryan nomination may not improve the east but it is an action which western Democrats understand. The failure of the Republicans to select Kenyon of Iowa for vice president gave the Democrats their chance to name governor Bryan. There is no doubt that the final decision to name the Nebraska governor was influenced by the knowledge that the nomination of Davis would be criticized as a Wall Street appointment for he has been counsel for J. P. Morgan and company and the Standard Oil company. It is true he has been counsel also for Eugene V. Debs, mother Jones and the Plate Glass Blowers union and he has had very conceivable type of client.

Perhaps the situation is best expressed by what William Jennings Bryan said to the writer: "Of course I shall support the ticket. You will observe that in everything that I wrote or said before this convention made its nominations, I was careful to speak of the high regard which I personally have had for Mr. Davis and for his integrity. I simply said that his connections raised a presumption of corporate influence. But I believe every man is entitled to a square deal, and what Mr. Davis said in his first statement, namely, 'There can be no compromise with reaction' indicates what his views will be. Also he has accepted the most progressive platform any political party ever presented to the nation."

Mr. Bryan said he would campaign actively for the ticket. It is no secret that he was flattered by the selection of his brother for John W. Davis himself said he wanted a western progressive and a dry to be

FINLAND CUTS
YANK LEAD IN OLYMPIC GAMES

Paavo Nurmi, Premier Distance Runner, Shatters Two Records Thursday

Olympic Stadium, Colombes, France—Paavo Nurmi, the Finnish whirlwind, started one of the greatest bids for Olympic fame any athlete ever attempted in a single afternoon Thursday by running away with the 1,500-metre race in the new Olympic record time of 3 minutes 53.5 seconds. The other task Nurmi set himself was winning of the final of the 5,000 metres.
Taking the lead in the 1,500-metres before the first 200 metres were covered, Nurmi set his own pace all the way, breaking the heart of the American star, Ray Watson, the A. A. U. half-mile champion, who cracked after running on the heels of the Finnish ace for 1,200 metres.
The point score of the leaders after the 1,500-metre run was United States 135, Finland 63.
The world's 400-metre record was shattered by an unheralded star—Imbach of Switzerland, who won the last of the half dozen elimination trials in 48 seconds flat. The old record was 48.15 seconds made by C. D. Reldpath, United States, in 1912.
Paavo Nurmi of Finland scored his second triumph of the day by winning the final of the 5,000-metre event. Willie Ritola, Finland was second.
Nurmi's time of 14 minutes 31.15 seconds broke the Olympic record, which was 14 minutes, 36.3 seconds, made by Hannes Kohlemaier in 1912. It also broke the world's record of 14 minutes 35.3 seconds made by Nurmi himself in Sweden in 1922.
The point score of the leaders after the 5,000-metre and 5,000 metres events had the number throw was: United States 157, Finland 103.

THREAT TO ABANDON ROAD
WORK STAYS INJUNCTION

Janesville—With county officials intimating that there would be no road through that section if court action to block it was carried out, a settlement of the dispute between Rock county and two farmers on the route of highway 20 west from Janesville, now being built, loomed Wednesday. James Murphy, one of the farmers, has agreed to a settlement and Matthew Huleahy is expected to do the same. The farmers sought an injunction to restrain the county from condemning the land.

Democratic Choice

GOV. CHARLES W. BRYAN OF NEBRASKA
Charles W. Bryan, governor of Nebraska and brother of William Jennings Bryan, was chosen a vice presidential nominee on the first ballot immediately after the nomination of John W. Davis of West Virginia as presidential candidate.

Will Battle Reaction,
Is Pledge Of Nominee

New York—John W. Davis, accepting the presidential nomination in a speech before the democratic national convention Wednesday night said:
"Grateful as I am of this great honor, I think even more of the duties you have given me to perform. But I take comfort when I look at the banners displayed throughout this hall and reflect that they are not the standards of a phantom army, but represent an army of millions of Democrats ready as they always have to battle for liberty and righteousness."
"We are a national party, and it must be, I believe, because we profess a national creed. The great principles of the democratic party—honesty in government, the belief that public office is a public trust, equal rights to all men and special privilege to none, fair and equal taxation, an open door of opportunity to the humblest citizen in all the land, liberty at home and courage and honor and helpfulness abroad—these principles are as dear to the east as to the west, and revered by the north and by the south."
"And this great army is ready to do battle again to any who challenge any part of this platform. On it all progressives can stand, to it all know, will stand united."
"I know this convention has had its differences, but all these things were but the thunderstorm that cleared the clouds away and left shining on us the sun of coming victory and success."
"When I am duly advised of the nomination it will be my duty to speak further on these and kindred themes. I shall therefore do no more at the moment than to express my appreciation and to express my confidence that I shall lead in this campaign a united, a militant and victorious party."

LAFOLLETTE MUST FILE PETITIONS

By Associated Press
Madison—Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin will be required to file nominating petitions to get his name on the general election ballot as an independent candidate for president, officials of the secretary of state's office said Thursday. State laws require 1,000 signatures on such petitions. Nominating petitions also must be filed for LaFollette electors on the independent ticket since no national convention chose such electors. It was stated. The basis on which the electors must be selected will be finally determined by an opinion from the Attorney General's department but officials expressed belief that electoral petitions would be on the same basis as the presidential petitions.
No information on procedure has yet been requested by LaFollette managers, it was said.

DAKOTA LOOKS FOR EASY TASK TO PUT BOB IN RACE

Fargo, N. D.—No difficulty is expected by supporters of senator Robert M. LaFollette in the placing of his name on the North Dakota ballots as an independent candidate for the presidency at the November general election in this state, they said Thursday.
According to North Dakota laws, an independent candidate must have the names of his electors placed on the ballot in this state by securing 300 names for each individually nominated elector.

Supporters of Tennessee Candidate Attempt to Stem Tide of Compromise

SMITH PROMISES SUPPORT

Nomination of Brother Swings William Jennings Bryan to Davis Ranks

New York—John W. Davis of West Virginia and Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska are the Democratic party's candidates for president and vice president.
Emerging on the one hundred and third ballot as the Democratic national convention's choice for the presidential nomination, the West Virginia lawyer and diplomat swept away great waves of bitterness churned up during the 15 preceding days of stormy conflict. Then taking command immediately, the new head of the party guided the convention swiftly toward the selection of his running mate, the brother of William Jennings Bryan his most vigorous opponent throughout the balloting.
When the convention adjourned at 2:24 a. m. Thursday it had filled many new pages of political history, rising in arms against the victors, sent a message to the victors, and naming the Ku Klux Klan in the party platform through the record breaking deadlock between the supporters of William G. McAdoo and Governor Alfred E. Smith that held through 100 ballots before a presidential nomination was in sight and in the closing scenes came a new president in the personal appeal of the nominee to acknowledge his gratitude, and his prompt assumption of command.

Loss in Home Town.

By Associated Press
Ludlow, Vt.—The body of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., was brought back to the hills he loved for burial with his forefathers at Plymouth, Vt., Thursday. The funeral train arrived here at 10:37 P. M., eastern standard time. The mourners, headed by President and Mrs. Coolidge, left immediately by motor for Plymouth with the bier under military escort.
Northampton, Mass.—The funeral train, bearing the body of Calvin Coolidge Jr., younger son of President Coolidge, reached here at 7 o'clock standard time, Thursday morning for the services in the Edwards Congregational church.
This city nestling under the shadow of Mount Tom, halted business and traffic for its last tribute to the president's son.
President and Mrs. Coolidge and their surviving son John, left the train shortly after arriving and went to the Coolidge home.
They were met by Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the president, and Mrs. Andrew Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge.
Colonel Coolidge had come from his home at Plymouth, Vt., and both he and Mrs. Goodhue will accompany the president's party to Plymouth where Calvin will be buried later in the day. It was also planned by the president to have his father return with the family to the White House.
The casket under a new cover of fresh pink roses placed there Thursday morning, remained in the compartment at the rear of the president's coach, the last on the special train, until shortly before time for the services, when the funeral procession accompanied it from the station. Church bells tolled as the funeral party arrived.

TWO RIVERS FIRM
SUES FOR RETURN
OF $20,000 TAXES

Hamilton Manufacturing Co.
Seeks Recovery of Sum from Internal Revenue

By Associated Press
Manitowoc—The Hamilton Manufacturing Co. of Two Rivers has started an action against Collector of Internal Revenue A. H. Wilkinson for the recovery of $20,000 of income taxes paid by the plaintiff company under protest in September 1922.
The complaint shows that Hamilton Manufacturing Co. purchased certain property in 1905 and in 1910 charge of $60,000 as loss or depreciation on account of the property so purchased, and took that amount as a deduction from its 1910 income; that the property in question was not actually sold by the Hamilton company until 1912; that some ten years later auditor for the federal treasury department demanded that the $60,000 in question, admittedly a loss in connection with property purchased, be paid by the company as income tax under protest in September 1922.
The company contends that there is no warrant of law for throwing the loss in question into a previous year and that therefore the resulting tax is unlawful, and that since the company was forced to pay it by demand of Mr. Wilkinson, as collector of internal revenue, the action in court is now brought by the company for the purpose of obtaining a refund of the entire amount.

NEEDED BUT ONE BALLOT
The final adjournment that marked the formal ending of the convention came two minutes after Governor Bryan had been declared nominated for vice president. It was accomplished with a single ballot.
The weary delegates had finished their work. Governor Smith himself, after sending Mr. Davis a message of "best wishes for success and my promise of heartiest support," accepted an invitation to address the convention Wednesday night and reiterated his pledge.
"I'll take off my coat and vest," he said, "and so will every other fellow in this state, and do what we can to improve conditions in the United States by the election of the ticket."

A similar invitation extended to Mr. McAdoo was not accepted and he made no comment beyond a message to Mr. Davis saying, "Please accept my congratulations on your nomination. It was said at the almost deserted campaign headquarters of the California candidate that he and his family would sail in a few days for Europe. William Jennings Bryan, although asserting he would support the ticket, was clearly disappointed at first, but his spirits rose as developments progressed toward the nomination of his brother for president. He said that at the end he told his friends that the decision to put the western governor on the ticket assured a campaign for progressive principles.

WALSH DECLINES
Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana chairman of the convention after Mr. Davis had swept the field on the one hundred third ballot, avoided the vice presidential nomination only by declining an adjournment until 3:30 P. M. in the face of a thundering chorus of noes against such action. He maintained his stand, insisting his usefulness would be greater as a senator.
The midnight conferees found their arguments advanced Governor Bryan's friends, detailing his executive experience, familiarity with agricultural problems, sympathy with liberal sentiment, and the geographical and other considerations, most persuasive. Mr. Bryan expressed amazement when informed of their decision. He did not even know he had been nominated.
But that was taken care of as soon as the recess ended and as it turned out, the supporters of only one other candidate, George L. Berry of Tennessee, one of the group of active pre-convention candidates for the nomination—attempted to stem the tide of compromise and weariness.

Mackinac Island, Mich.—Many of the steamer North American's 350 passengers bound for Chicago to Buffalo on a week's excursion danced in the ship's salon until midnight Wednesday night while two tug boats struggled to release the steamer from rocks at Gray's Reef, with a private yacht standing by in case of an emergency. Others retired, according to members of the crew, and slept soundly with the tugs Madison and Fortie straining at the North American's sides.
The steamer slid into its berth at the Mackinac Island dock just before daylight Thursday morning coming under her own steam and apparently undamaged after being aground since 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.
This is the first time one of the big lake steamers has been aground in northern Lake Michigan waters in 15 years, local marine men said.

NELSON SEES BRYAN
AS LAFOLLETTE MAN

Chicago—The prediction that William Jennings Bryan would come out for LaFollette for president despite the nomination of his brother for vice president by the Democrats was made Thursday by representative John M. Nelson, independent Republican, Wisconsin, here to open LaFollette headquarters.
"Governor Charles Bryan's nomination was bait for his brother," representative Nelson said. "His brother William will not, in my opinion, swallow the bait. The nomination of John W. Davis for president of the Democrats over the opposition of the man who was thrice their presidential choice added to the Republican's state, insures the election of LaFollette as our next president. The reactionaries and the special interests never showed their hand with more reckless defiance."

Prague—The young physicians of Prague threaten to strike because the professor of the medical colleges are trying to force them to remain bachelors. The professors passed a resolution that physicians employed as assistants should pledge themselves not to marry in the near future. The young doctors immediately protested declaring this a limitation of their personal liberty.

EVERY WISCONSIN CONGRESSMAN WILL SEEK REELECTION

Badger Representatives Preparing for Campaigns to Hold Their Seats

Every incumbent Wisconsin congressman again will be in the race for re-election, according to information reaching here from all districts in the state. A number will be unopposed within the party to which they belong, others will have to compete for the nomination and still others will have no opposition within or without the party, according to the latest indications from the field.

In Milwaukee, Socialists again have renominated by referendum, Victor L. Berger of the Fifth district, and have placed Leo Krzycki in the field in the Fourth district, in an attempt to wrest the seat from Congressman John C. Shafer, Republican.

As a general thing, incumbent congressmen are slow in filing nomination papers. Only two have filed to date. These are James A. Frear, Tenth district, Hudson, Wis., and Florian Lampert Sixth district, Oshkosh. Both will make active campaigns.

Republican congressmen will have party opposition in the First, Seventh, Eighth and Eleventh districts, according to the drift of political murmurings coming from those units. In the last named district, Adolphus P. Nelson, Republican, Grantsburg, former congressman, is to seek a comeback for the seat of Congressman H. K. Peavey of Washburn, political observers assert.

In the Eighth district, A. H. Eberlein, Republican, Wausau, has announced himself as a candidate for the nomination in place of Congressman E. E. Browne, Waupaca. The latter will contest this effort, as indicated by his intention to run again.

In the first district, as usual, there can be expected a lively race for the seat held by Congressman Henry A. Cooper, Racine, a warrior of many campaigns. Friends of Charles H. Pfennig, former mayor of Kenosha, have been active for weeks in the latter's behalf. Pfennig is an avowed candidate and is soliciting the support of all regular Republicans in the district. Cooper is affiliated with the LaFollette faction of the party.

DEMOCRATS GO SLOW
Democrats, while declaring their party will have a complete congressional slate in the field in the fall election, have been proceeding slowly, sifting their available timber exceedingly fine, and will not make general announcements as to their slate until after the return of political leaders from the national Democratic convention in New York.

In the meanwhile, in every county in Wisconsin, Democrats have been quietly organizing clubs whose purpose it will be to sound sentiment and promote Democratic aims, according to John P. Hume, Democratic state committee chairman.

Calvin Stewart, prominent Democrat of Kenosha, has been mentioned for the congressional race in the First district. Another potential Democratic congressional candidate is Thomas Ryan, St. Croix county, who is said to have ambitions to take the seat occupied by Representative James A. Frear, Hudson, who has already filed for re-nomination, in the Republican field.

ALLMAN, CREATOR OF DUFF COMICS, CALLED BY DEATH

The Duffs are no more. Readers of Post-Crescent comics who have been patiently awaiting the return of the famous comic strip, "The Doings of the Duffs," will be disappointed to learn that Walter R. Allman, creator of the comic, died Tuesday in Cleveland, Ohio, after a long illness.

Mr. Allman had been in ill health for several years but had continued at work until his final illness, except for a few weeks spent in Florida where he attempted to regain his strength. His condition improved during his vacation and he returned to work, but only for a few months when he again was compelled to quit.

Allman was 42 years of age. He is survived by his widow who lives in Cleveland.

LAY 13,000 FEET OF MAINS THIS SPRING

Considerable Progress Has Been Made in Spite of Bad Weather

More than 2,500 feet of water main has been put in by the Appleton Water department in the last ten days, making the total amount laid this season about 13,000 feet. Mains were placed on Rogers-ave from Douglas to Herbert-ave, on Pine-st from Mason to Carver-ave and on Outagamie-st from Rogers-ave to 726 feet south of Pine-st. Three hydrants were installed on these mains.

The 4-inch service line into Alicia park for park purposes has been completed. During the last ten days, 20 service lines have been run to private property.

Approximately 4250 more feet of mains will be laid this year. It is hoped that the work will be completed by July 15, but the exceedingly wet weather has greatly hindered the program of the department. On streets where there are no sewers it has been almost impossible to get the mains in.

ALFALFA CROP IS BEST IN HISTORY

Between Seven and Eight Thousand Acres Seed in County This Year

Outagamie county's banner crop of alfalfa is waiting to be cut. If the "haymaker" is on the side of the farmers, they will benefit greatly by the largest as well as the finest crop even known in this county, according to R. A. Amundson, county agent.

Several weeks ago it appeared that the prolonged cool and wet weather would result in a considerable setback for the alfalfa crop, but the hay has grown fast under the increasing heat of the sun, so that the crop is not very far behind that of last year's. A number of farmers have already started cutting and others are expected to follow shortly.

The stand is unusually good, and even the new seeding which at first was slow has turned out well. The hay has shot up so fast that some farmers say that it has been growing at the rate of an inch a day. Some fields show a stand that is 43 inches high.

More alfalfa is being raised in the county than has ever been known here before. An earlier estimate of the acreage was given as 5,000 acres. An estimate of 7,000 to 8,000 acres now is considered more accurate. One dealer in Seymour also sold 10,000 pounds of seed, or enough to seed approximately 600 acres.

NEW LONDON WANTS TO BECOME A PART OF OUTAGAMIE-CO

Businessmen of Neighboring City Eager to Get Out of Waupaca-co

Sentiment in favor of merging a part of the east end of Waupaca-co with Outagamie-co is prevalent in New London and Clintonville and enthusiasm for the movement is increasing. Census figures showing that the bulk of the population of the county is in the central and northeastern part of Waupaca-co and that tax valuations show that more than half of the taxes are levied on property in the southeastern portion of the county. The proposed merging was discussed and favored at a meeting of New London Rotary club, but it was brought out that action on the part of the state legislature would be necessary.

This proposal recalls another in the history of Outagamie and Shawano cos. when about ten years ago it was desired to take parts of both counties to make a new county. The proposal was defeated in the legislature, however.

Merging of a portion of Waupaca-co with Outagamie-co seems more practical and desirable to people in that vicinity than the formation of a new county, because they see no need of having more counties than necessary with the added expense of administration.

It is argued that there is no reason why a portion of Waupaca-co should be more than its share in contributing to the support of the whole county without getting anything in return.

Some action on the part of Clintonville men is expected soon, for a number there seem to be interested in the project.

ON THE SCREEN

IS ANY MAN HARMLESS IN A LOVE AFFAIR?

"Second Youth" which is showing at the Elite today, Friday and Saturday, proves two things—first, that no man is harmless, and second, that the question "Shall woman propose?" is still highly debatable.

The story concerns a very modern young lady who is extremely annoyed by the freedom allowed the masculine sex in the matter of flirting. She objects to a condition which allows a man to play around with salesgirls, stenographers, ladies of the ensemble and so forth without arousing adverse comment, but which condemns a woman for doing similar things. She determines to rebel and acts to do a little flirting herself, picking out a super shy silk salesman because she believes him harmless. The gentleman is not as harmless as she looks and thereby hangs an amusing tale. The young lady finds half a dozen others are hot in pursuit of the same shy young man and, Simple Simon, accepts the proposals of two or three of them at once. Having desperately tried to escape them all, she decides that he of them at least, should not be escaped from, and promptly permits himself to be hooked for life.

WILLIAM DUNCAN BRAVES RAPIDS TO MAKE BIG SCENE

It is not an easy task to swim in a river with clothes on. In addition to this it is exceptionally difficult if the swimmer is fighting in rapids. This is just what William Duncan was forced to do in making one of the big splash scenes for "Steelheart," which will be shown at New Bijou Theatre on Friday and Saturday. The climax comes when the hero, struggling with a band of desperadoes, falls over a cliff in a death clinch with his opponent. The men drop 100 feet to the water and are carried down stream into the rapids. The villain lifts his head upon a rock, thereby releasing the hero, who is carried still farther. Spent with the energy expended during the combat, the hero becomes dazed and is in great peril. He is with him, however, and succeeds in reaching shore. During the making of this scene Duncan was out for realism. The men fought desperately at the top of the cliff, and over the brink with such force that many of the players gasped with horror. They stepped to the edge and peered down the stream below. There in deadly combat were the two men fighting for life in a swift, rushing current which was bearing them on and on toward the rapids. The villain released his hold on Duncan, and the latter was tossed about like a toy.

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

Considered from the standpoint of fitness and ability, the Democratic nomination for the presidency, John W. Davis, of West Virginia, was as good a selection as could have been made from the list before the convention. His vote-getting qualities are another matter, and his personal strength remains to be disclosed. Mr. Davis is little known by the rank and file, but he can make himself known if he is gifted that way.

The nominee is in the prime of life and has had large experience in public affairs, having been a member of congress and ambassador to Great Britain during the administration of Woodrow Wilson. Although not conspicuous, he was still a forceful figure in diplomacy. He, therefore, has considerable knowledge of government and its problems by direct contact. As a lawyer he is rated one of the best in the country. While he is advertised by his critics as a corporation lawyer, this is largely a political appellation. He has handled some notable cases for labor, and won some important victories for it in the courts. Corporation practice is nothing against him, although it may be hard to convince the proletariat of the fact. It will, of course, be used to discredit his candidacy.

The greatest handicap Mr. Davis will have to overcome is the party that nominated him. The people long have approached Democratic offerings to run the government with misgiving. The party has been swept into power the few times it has elected a president since the Civil war by revulsion against Republican misrule, coupled with outstanding eminence of its nominee. It has been too much a party of negation and not of positive program. This year it faced another opportunity to return to power through the mistakes and disrepute of its adversary. Much of this advantage was lost by reason of the strong ticket put up by the Republicans. More of it has been forfeited by the bitter sectional, factional and personal fighting at New York, which finally made of the convention a great political farce. A dry south could not get on with a wet east, and a Klan middle west was equally at loggerheads with an anti-Klan east. The breach is a severe one. It has reduced the confidence of the country in the party as a whole, and while we think the broken parts will be pretty well amalgamated among those of strong party feeling, the country is far from enthusiastic.

As a prediction, we should say that Mr. Follette's candidacy will hurt the Democrats more than the Republicans, although theoretically it should be the reverse. Mr. Davis faces an uphill fight, and if he is the fighter he is reputed to be he will have plenty to engage his talents the next three months.

MR. COUZENS AND PARTY

Senator Couzens of Michigan has again projected himself into the limelight by refusing to give his "full" indorsement to President Coolidge and the Republican platform. Nevertheless, he aspires to election on the Republican ticket. If Michigan Republicans are as careless of party regularity and consistency of their nominees as are the Republicans of Wisconsin, they will not bother about a little matter like this. They will elect Mr. Couzens because he is Couzens, just as Wisconsin elects La Follette, and not because he is a Republican, which he is not.

The distinction drawn by the Michigan senator between a complete and incomplete indorsement of ticket and platform is somewhat novel. It would have been a clever invention coming from Mr. La Follette. Mr. Couzens is too technical or too conscientious, we do not know which. Mr. Shipstead is another of those athletic politicians, who, like our own fighting Bob, would never stop to reduce the political lexiconology to such niceties. They run on the ticket and damn it in toto, platform, nominee and all.

Mr. Couzens' attitude raises a new question. Should a candidate who does not subscribe to all that politicians in convention assembled dictate, all that a nominee advocates and all that an administration is guilty of, present his bill of exceptions in advance, or is it good form to get back of everything in the campaign with the foreknowledge that he will exhibit independence when he gets in office? It is a point of ethics that has never disturbed either the people or the politicians much in the past.

Mr. Couzens' declaration that he considers his soul his own and will not submit to the tyranny of politicians listens well, and he has shown that he can carry it out. If, however, the doctrine is to stand, what is to become of party government? Pretty soon all of the candidates will be saying what they are doing, and that will make it awkward to the high moguls who take unto themselves party destiny. Mr. Couzens is far from regular, that much will be admitted. But if he is going to support Mr. Coolidge in part and oppose him in part, which part does he wish to prevail?

EQUALITY WITH LIBERTY

President Henry Smith Pritchett of the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching makes an interesting distinction between liberty and equality. The strong sentiment which Patrick Henry described in his famous exclamation, "Give me liberty or give me death," seems at present to be dead or sleeping. The past half-century has been notable, says Dr. Pritchett, for progress in inventions and astounding physical and mental changes have been brought about. "But far beyond all these developments," in his opinion, "far more profoundly affecting the happiness and fruitfulness of the people of our country is that slow, unseen exchange, by which the ideal human liberty has been displaced as a moving force in the thoughts of men. In the place of it has been substituted the notion of an artificial, restricted equality of men to be brought about by the arbitrary processes of governmental authority.

That is a good illustration of the distinction, rather, the difference, between equality built up arbitrarily and artificially by law and equality created out of liberty. Substantially, Dr. Pritchett explains that it is impossible to have liberty through a system of law-established equality. Equality is attained by liberty. Liberty itself is equality. Therefore, it is the fact of freedom that we should value. It is sufficient for individuals to have the greatest latitude in liberty, for liberty establishes the conditions and offers the opportunities for prosperity and happiness, and these benefits produce that equality which raises the average of merit among the people.

Dr. Pritchett knows that the spirit of liberty is not dead in the United States, but it is necessary to use some rhetoric in order to show that the spirit is clouded to some extent by erroneous interferences. Liberty does not go with equality. But equality goes with liberty. This is worth remembering.

DAD'S LUNCH BOX

It's only a tin, or a leather affair, but it answers the purpose for dad. It holds what is needed, so why should he care if it's not quite the best to be had?

It's filled every morn and it's handed to him. There's surprise 'cause he hasn't a hunch what food mother's packed till it's filled to the brim, but he'll know when he sits down to lunch.

Imagine the feeling when noon arrives and cautiously of comes the lid. Why, honestly, dad's have the time of their lives when they're finding the food that's been hid.

A sandwich of cheese and a corner of pie and a pork chop, the searching will bring. Whatever it is, it's a treat for the eye and a meal that is fit for a king.

It isn't so much what the lunch box may hold but the fact that it's packed up with care. The truth of it is, when the story is told, is that Mom put some sentiment there.

FOOT RULES

That sovereign remedy for autoindication, two miles of oxygen three times a day on the hoof, has lost none of its prophylactic or curative value since the advent of balloon tires.

Like castor oil this remedy has a serious drawback; to most people it is disagreeable to take. Unlike castor oil, it is nevertheless the more necessary for the very people who find it so disagreeable to take. Probably there are few healthy folks who hate to take exercise more than I do, but I have a bone feeling that by whipping and driving myself to take the exercise I need I manage to keep on the bright side of the shadowy borderland between health and unhealth.

One reason why many people who sorely need six miles of oxygen under their own power do not get it is because they think they can't without chafing, sweating, and acquiring blisters and everything. For such I would suggest a few foot rules. For walking it is better to wear thick soft stockings, preferably wool under the feet, not silk, lisle or cotton. The wool is a softer covering and pad which acts as a kind of shock absorber, saving the skin of the soles from excessive friction and pressure. Some experienced walkers find that cork insoles serve this purpose very well. But in general all thick soft woolen socks or stockings with such feet are advisable for walking. If you go on long walks it is wise to carry an extra pair of socks and change in the middle of the day.

A reader offered an excellent suggestion for the care of the feet. He found that the liberal use of common talcum powder such as is used in the casing, tends to keep the feet cool and to prevent excessive sweating, which he thought was in part due to excessive friction, and this the talcum overcame. When the feet sweat too much it is well to lay in a stock of plain talcum or talcum and boracic acid combined, and also a small sprinkler box of salicylic acid over that, every day or two.

Of course it is necessary to wear shoes which do not constrict or restrict the feet. Women suffer most from tight, narrow shoes, and in some cases from high narrow heels, which simply can't be worn for walking. Men sometimes err on the side of having the shoes too large.

The soles should be heavy enough to prevent the impressions of pebbles or other irregularities from going through to the feet. Low cut shoes (oxfords or sandals) are preferable if the nature of the ground to be covered is favorable. High shoes are better if you are to walk through rough ground. High shoes, however, should not constrict the ankle or instep.

Sedentary people who contemplate a course of oxygen on the hoof should train for it by smaller doses at the beginning, a mile or two a day, and gradually extend the distance from week to week as the conditions of the feet and general fitness permit.

An adult in even fair fighting trim, that is, in physical condition to put up a good argument with pneumonia or appendicitis or any such emergency test, ought to be able to do a five mile walk any day without feeling fatigue or soreness afterward.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Pleurisy

Kindly explain what pleurisy is, its cause, where the pain or pains are felt; its cure, etc. (L. M. W.)

Answer.—Inflammation of the serous (not serious) membrane which lines the chest and covers the lungs, caused by various bacteria such as the pneumococcus (pneumonia germ), the tubercle bacillus and the common pus producing streptococcus, staphylococcus. The pain is a "stitch in the side," a sharp stabbing pain felt with each act of breathing.

Hay Fever and Asthma

Several months ago you wrote about a relief for hay fever and asthma. Will you kindly repeat the name of the remedy and directions for its use? (L. I. B.)

Answer.—Calcium chlorid or calcium lactate was the name of a medicine I suggested for victims of hay fever or asthma. Take about five grains of either, dissolved in not less than a glassful of water after meals regularly two or three times a day for several weeks or throughout the hay fever season. In most such cases there is a calcium deficit in the blood. In many cases there is some fault in the assimilation of calcium, and this fault is overcome by a very small dose of parathyroid or thyroid substance every day or two in conjunction with the calcium chlorid or calcium lactate treatment.

World's News
Told In Brief,
Simple Style

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Politicians—those who admit anything at all—agree that the past week has improved the Progressives' prospects enormously. Of the Progressives themselves, the more hopeful are even claiming victory. The more cautious ones don't go quite this far, but they do express confidence that La Follette will get more votes than either the Republican or the Democratic candidate, though perhaps not more than both of them put together.

NOT WORRIED

If so, with the House left to decide the issue, the present political division might make it impossible for the representatives to agree on a president. In such a case presumably President Coolidge would go on holding office pending his successor's selection. But this isn't worrying the Progressives. If they get a plurality of the votes, they say it will mean the speedy end of both old parties and realignment along liberal and conservative ideas, with the latter certain to sweep the country at the succeeding election.

BOTH 'ALIKE

While the Progressives have hoped all along to draw a good many votes from the Democrats as well as the Republicans, the general impression, until the New York convention was pretty well along, was that their heaviest toll would be taken from the Republicans. But the way the convention has split the Democratic party has changed this opinion. The belief now is that voters in shoals will desert both old groups to get under the Progressive banner.

OIL AGAIN

According to officials of the District of Columbia, where ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, Edward L. Doheny and E. L. Doheny Jr. were indicted, on charges growing out of their oil deals, the trial of the quartet will be as good as the senate's Teapot Dome investigation. But the public is skeptical. Judging from the comment, the general belief is that nobody will go to prison as a result of the inquiry, that the cases simply will string along indefinitely until finally they peter out altogether.

JUST DETECTING

It looks, however, as if Gaston B. Means, the investigators' star witness in the Daugherty inquiry, will go to prison. He's still fighting his case, but the prosecution has progressed as far as a conviction and sentence. Means will have to get the lower court reversed to escape and it may be difficult. He was found guilty of helping to get 50 barrels of whiskey out of the government's hands, to be sold by the drink. Means admits he did help but says he did it as a detective to get evidence against bootleggers.

JAPAN

The Washington government isn't worried over the anti-American "Incidents," which have occurred in Japan since the new United States immigration law passed. The perpetrators have been private individuals and the Japanese officials honestly have done their best to run them down and punish them. But there isn't any question a lot of ill feeling exists which may lead to something later.

Q. What is the difference between the Catholic Bible and the Protestant Bible? E. S.

A. The chief difference between the Roman Catholic and Protestant Bibles is the fact that the apocryphal books of the Bible are accepted as canonical by the Roman Church and rejected by the Protestant Church as uncanonical and of historical value only. These books are: Book of Esdras I and II; Additions to Esther; Book of Wisdom; Book of Ecclesiasticus; Book of Baruch; Additions to Daniel of Song of the Three Children; Prayer of Manassas; Tobit; Judith; Epistle of Jeremy; Maccabees I and II. In the matter of the Ten Commandments, the Catholic Bible includes the 1st Commandment what the Protestant Bible divides into the 1st and 2nd, and divides in the Catholic Bible in the 9th and 10th what the Protestant Bible includes in the 10th. Other differences in the Protestant and Catholic Bibles are mostly those of translation of certain words. Both ish them. But there isn't any question a lot of ill feeling exists which may lead to something later.

Unusual People

VOODOOISM DEAD IN HAITI

Lady Dorothy Mills of London has heard a lot about the voodooism of Haiti, about the worship of the green snake, the weird stories of the bac districts. So she went to Haiti to investigate. "It's all bosh," says she. "Voodooism has long since passed out and the people are well educated and Christianized. The natives give America much credit for cleaning up the country from a sanitary standpoint but they object to the way Americans laugh at their efforts to govern themselves. They want America's help, not ridicule."

are derived from the Jewish Scriptures and writings, and the writing of the Apostles and other contemporaries.

Q. How can sound waves be neutralized? D. H. D.

A. The Bureau of Standards says there are two methods namely, by interference and by absorption. In neutralizing sound waves by interference two waves are combined in such a way as to produce silence. It is necessary in doing this to have both sources of sound coupled in some way. The method, however, could not be used to neutralize a sound, the source of which is not under control. The other method of neutralizing sound waves by absorption is simply a question of interposing suitable screens of sound-absorbing material. Haskin felt is the best sound deadener so far discovered.

Q. What is a telephone city? W. V.

A. Telephone companies divide cities into sections, each with several thousand telephone subscribers. Each section is a telephone city. Its own central office and a name such as "Columbia" or "Potomac" to designate it. When a number is called that is within the same telephone city the connection is made in the local central office. When a number is called that is outside the telephone city the local central connects with a trunk line which leads to a central office in the proper telephone city. There connection is made with the subscriber wanted.

Q. Is there a white mahogany tree? A. White mahogany or Prima Vera is a Mexican tree belonging to the family Bignoniaceae. It attains a height of 50-75 feet and has a diameter of four feet.

Q. What per cent of the people this country live to be 65 years of age? W. J. T.

A. According to the census of 1924 47 per cent of the population is composed of persons who are 65 years of age or older.

Q. When was the thermometer invented? W. O. H.

A. The exact date of the invention of the thermometer is no known. According to some authorities it was invented by Galileo before 1579. The Fahrenheit thermometer was adopted about 1726; the Centigrade thermometer about 1742.

Girls Will Be Trained In Art Work

Arts and crafts that are interesting and useful will be taught girls who attend Appleton Womans club scout and campfire girl camp at Onaway Island, Waupaca, the two weeks beginning July 19. Many of the crafts were taught to the girls who attended camp last year, but new work will be introduced this year.

The most interesting and fascinating of these is the plan to do block printing. Indian designs, monograms and symbols will be carved on especially prepared blocks of wood and these will be used to print the desired designs on campfire robes, specimen booklets, headbands and any other articles the girls are desirous of decorating.

The specimen book is another feature of camp life that girls interested in nature lore will find attractive. The plan is not to mount specimens, but to make drawings from nature discoveries in books planned and made by the girls.

Outdoor sketches will attract the artistically inclined and included in the program of arts and crafts are basketry, stencilling on sanitos, candle decorating and many other things that will appeal to all types of girls. The girls who work with reed and paper rope will have the opportunity to make baskets, lamp shades, trays, flower vases and work baskets. Camp utensils for cooking also will be made during the hours turned over to this phase of camp life.

All this work is to be done under the direction of Miss Vivian Morrow and Miss Lona Drahm. Miss Morrow taught home economics in the third district schools last year and Miss Drahm taught this subject in the second district school.

Nearly a dozen Appleton members attended the meeting which was held in Castle hall.

A LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO RUTH ELLINGTON-DEAR GIRL:

You can't imagine how glad I was to get your letter, perhaps most because it told me that you and Jack were friends again. Jack also wrote me to that effect, and he also explained how and why he took Sally Atherton to dinner.

Dear old Jack! He has no more idea of the conventions than any other man. I expect the whole town was agog with the fact that while I was gone he took his secretary out to dinner, no one for a moment remembering that if there was anything at all between Jack and Sally the last thing either of them would do would be to dine together in as conspicuous a place as the most popular lunch room in town.

I wonder why this dinner business between a male employer and a female employee makes such a stir. Why is it such a sweet morsel for the gossips to roll under their tongue? I am quite sure if I was a man of business there would be many times that I would want my secretary to dine with me, whether the secretary was male or female.

In my own case, of course, Sally is my friend, and I would not want anyone to say anything unkind about her. Head it off, won't you, Ruth, if anyone should speak to you about it? You are positively uncanny, dear girl, about things. I have just had a letter from Karl Whitney, in which he has announced his engagement to Alice. I never realized before, Ruth, that that sister of mine was so clever. I am certain now that she intended to marry Karl from the moment she knew I had refused him.

Isn't it strange that sometimes we are not as well acquainted with the members of our own families as we are with comparative strangers? I am sure I know you better than I ever knew Alice.

Karl wrote me a very nice letter about Alice. He tells me he hopes I will forgive him for being glad I jilted him for Jack. I don't think he used the word "jilt," but his meaning was identical.

I wonder if you'll think I am a kind of a dog in the manger, as it were, if I say I am sorry that Alice and Karl have fallen in love with each other. Karl and I have been too nearly lovers for me ever to look

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly."

Mrs. I. A. HOLFORD, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

Social Items

Kaukauna—L. F. Nelson gave an interesting talk on the Democratic national convention at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club Wednesday noon following the usual noon-day luncheon. Routine business was disposed of. Howard Smith, who will direct this year's Kaukauna pageant, was a guest of the club.

About 50 persons attended the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters picnic Tuesday afternoon at Waverly beach. Although the weather was threatening all morning the sun came out early in the afternoon and all who made the trip reported a good time. Bathing was the chief form of diversion during the afternoon.

The Royal Neighbors of America will hold their annual picnic at Waverly beach next Wednesday afternoon. All who plan to attend will take the 1:15 interurban car.

Plans for their picnic to be held Saturday afternoon at a Bell's cottage, Potato Point, were made at a meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of Methodist church at the home of Mrs. N. L. Cass, 900 Metropolitan Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Elizabeth Mae Wood of Brookings, Ore., granddaughter of Mrs. H. S. Cooke, was elected to life membership in the Little Life Bearers, a children's missionary society. Mrs. James Black was in charge of a topic on Japan. Mrs. Pauline Kirkwood and Mrs. W. P. Hagman presented an interesting dialogue. Mrs. A. H. Knox rendered a vocal solo.

Mr. Dawson, who has been an invalid a result of an accident 12 years ago while he was janitor of Nicolet school, died Thursday, July 3. He is survived by two sisters and one brother. Mr. Dawson was born in Chesley, England, March 3, 1845 and came to America and Wisconsin with his parents in 1856. The family first settled in Jefferson-co. then moved to Fond du Lac-co and later to this section of the state. CUBS, SPECIALS CAN'T DECIDE WHO WON GAME

Kaukauna—There was a ball game on the local lot Tuesday evening which went 12 innings but there is no special record as to what team won. It was the second meeting of Keba's Specials and the South Side Cubs and both aggregations claim victory. The Specials won, 6 to 5, they say, while the Cubs stoutly deny this and declare they played three extra innings at the request of their opponents who were particularly anxious to annex the victory.

The South Side Cubs are a fast bunch of young upstarts, stars from the best teams throughout the city while the Specials include mostly the old timers who were in the limelight when Kaukauna had players that lived right here who could beat any thing in the old Fox River Valley league and who are heartily in favor of Stormy Kromer's plans of developing material from home into big league stock. What the Specials lack in youthful speed they make up in baseball strategy and cunning, so that both teams are evenly matched and the battle waxed merry every time the two clubs clash.

SHOWER IS GIVEN FOR MRS. MYRON FLOTOW

WESTERN VISITORS LIKED VALLEY BEST OF ALL TOUR AREA

Talks Are Made at Greenville Grange Hall—Liked Farms and Papermill

Outagamie and Winnebago counties afforded the southwestern visitors the best part of their tour of Wisconsin when they inspected farms, highways, cheese factories and the rural community generally via motor caravan Wednesday. They left Oshkosh in the evening for Watertown and southern Wisconsin feeling that they had both pleasure and profit. The delegation included 134 men from Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

They reached South Greenville Grange hall after riding from Oshkosh to Watertown on highway 15 and visiting farms and other points enroute. In the talks that followed a luncheon at the hall they were welcomed by George R. Schmelzer, president of the grange. Responses were made by W. M. Jardine, Manhattan, Kas., president of Kansas State Agricultural college; C. A. Whitehurst, Oklahoma City, president of the Oklahoma board of agriculture, and J. Frank Smith, manager of the Good Roads association of Greater Kansas City.

A feature of the afternoon's trip was a milking contest on the shore of Lake Winnebago, on the dairy farm of E. H. Fahneny, Chicago manufacturer. Reid Murray of the Wisconsin college of agriculture acted as judge of the contest which, for diplomatic reasons, was declared a draw.

The visitors enjoyed immensely a trip through one of the Fox river valley paper mills, and also expressed admiration at the method by which Wisconsin had developed its highway system. Study of the Badger highways is one of the primary objects of the southerners' trip, overshadowed only by the interest in dairying and diversified farming methods.

The visitors' special train left Oshkosh Wednesday at midnight for Watertown. Thursday, after spending a few hours at Watertown, the party will go by auto to the Pabst farm at Oconomowoc, and from there to Waukegan and Milwaukee, which will be reached in the afternoon. The special train leaves Milwaukee Thursday night for Chicago, and that city Friday night on the return trip to Kansas City.

DAVIS AND BRYAN HEAL BREACH IN DEMOCRAT PARTY

Leaders of Every Faction in Convention Agree to Support Ticket

his running mate and indicated his desire to have Governor Bryan named.

SHOW PROGRESSIVISM
Actions like these were convincing of a willingness to raise the progressive standard. Although eastern Democrats looked askance they recognized that the battle of 1924 will not be fought in New York and New England but in the middle west and west. The Democratic hopes in carrying West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and western states, plus the solid south.

Al Smith may run again for governor of New York and will wholeheartedly support the national ticket. Former Governor Cox of Ohio will be an aggressive aid to the Davis-Bryan combination in the middle-west. He counseled the party leaders in the last two days of the convention to agree on Davis.

Altogether the reaction of the delegates to the ticket today was in surprising contrast to their depression of several days ago. Many concede that Coolidge is strong in the east and look toward the west for a decision. But the campaign will turn largely on the issues as unfolded by Mr. Davis who will take the offense.

Poleon And Pierrette

Dat chatte Pierrette she's mak dose 'oliday for week an' dere's no one for tel how weddaire she's act up. Wens-day dat kitty she's come back. Le bon Dieu He know where she's spend vacations, but me, Poleon, I tink she's been wid some mauvais sujet.

Dose eye she's closed han' den nose she's blue lak' a p. c. Pierrette she's sit in sun an' say no'ting. Mebbe so she know bettaire nex' tam.

She's say weddaire be hot lak' home of M. le Diable tonight an' hotter Friday, but dose cloud dey come demain for cover up dat sun.

sive. President Coolidge will stay at the White House most of the time and Senator LaFollette is too old to wage an active campaign. Mr. Davis will have an opportunity to travel extensively and speak by radio everywhere. He likes campaigning, is a forceful speaker and has a magnetic personality. He is not the kind who is given to demagoguery and the campaign can expect an intelligent campaign from him.

PRIZE FOR DAVIS
Newspaper comment, even from the Republican press here about gives Davis credit for a courageous record in public service and for genuine ability, but it isn't likely to be a campaign of personalities. The Democrats themselves concede that President Coolidge is highly respected and that Senator LaFollette is credited by the west as being a sincere advocate of Radicalism. The issues are more likely to be national problems, the record of the Republican congress, the capacity of the Republican party to rule based on the four years gone by and the capacity of the Democrats to govern based on the eight years they were in power. The struggle of members of the house and senate for reelection as well as the state contests will furnish local issue which here and there will influence the fate of the national tickets of all parties. The real fighting ground will be the west.

Governor Bryan said today he had not sought the vice presidential nomination because he wanted to finish his work as governor. He has been fighting the oil monopolies and has managed to force a reduction in the price of gasoline. Last winter he went into the coal business for use state of Nebraska and forced down the price of coal. He is somewhat different from his brother in that he has had more administrative experience but his strength just the same in the west will be largely his reputation for rugged honesty and sincerity—a circumstance that has made the name of Bryan a vote-getter beyond the Mississippi for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kegel of Washington, D. C., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Rockstroff, 694 Hancock-st. Mr. Kegel is employed in the government printing office and before going to Washington 20 years ago was employed as pressman by the Post Publishing company. Mr. and Mrs. Kegel are accompanied by Miss Beatrice Southard of Milwaukee. They made the trip from Washington by automobile.

DAVIS REFUSAL TO LEAVE HIS CLIENT GAVE HIM STRENGTH

Democratic Nominee for President Proves He Has a Mind of His Own

Perhaps nothing could be better delineate the character of John W. Davis and the Davis viewpoint than the letter written last March—which attracted national notice at the time—refusing to make a move to promote his political prospects.

This communication, addressed to a Washington newspaper correspondent, brought him forcibly to the country's attention. It was written in reply to a suggestion that his chance to win the presidential nomination would be improved if he were to sever his legal connections in New York and return to West Virginia.

"No one in this list of clients," he wrote, referring to his varied law practice over a long period of years "has ever controlled or even fancied that he could control my personal or my political conscience. I am vain enough to believe that no one ever will."

To this he added:

"The only limitation upon a right-thinking lawyer's independence is the duty which he owes to his clients. Once selected, to serve them without the slightest thought of the effect such a service may have upon his own personal popularity or his political fortunes. Any lawyer who surrenders this independence or shades his duty by trimming his professional course to fit the gusts of popular opinion, in my judgment, not only dishonors himself, but disparages and degrades the great profession to which he should be proud to belong. You must not think me either indifferent or unappreciative if I tell you in candor that I would not per this price for any honor in the gift of man."

Then there was this striking expression in conclusion:

"I must stand by my philosophy. What is life worth, after all, if one has no philosophy of his own to live it by? If one surrenders this to win an office, what will he live by after the office is won?"

LETTER AROUSES STRONG SUPPORT

This letter undoubtedly did more to awaken a slumbering sentiment in Davis' favor than any other development that has occurred since his name first began to figure in presidential discussions. By refusing to become a candidate, he added several cubits to his stature in the minds of many persons.

Mr. Davis stepped from his West Virginia law practice into the house of representatives at Washington at 27. He served all told less than two terms.

It was during his second term that Woodrow Wilson called him to the office of solicitor general, next to the United States supreme court and the attorney generalship the highest legal office in the government—and, considering relative responsibilities, perhaps the most important. Yet in the comparatively brief period of his service in the house, he attained ready recognition as one of its foremost figures. In intellectual ability and capacity for leadership he was rated among the first 10 in a body then much more notable for these qualities than it is now.

Mr. Davis undoubtedly could have become a member of the supreme court through appointment by a Republican president had he so desired. His name figured in discussions of vacancies filled by President Harding in 1922 and 1923. It was generally understood at the time that he had declined an unofficial and informal proffer of appointment.

Appleton Physicians Interested In Public Treatment Of Goiter

While nothing has been done in Appleton toward the public health treatment of simple goiter by means of administering iodine, local doctors and chemists, including Arthur J. Hall, city chemist, are much interested in the experiments being tried by other cities. Appleton is in the "great goiter belt" where it is said that 75 per cent of the school children have been found by clinical examination to be goitrous.

Kenosha it is reported is considering the administering of sodium iodide in its drinking water as Rochester, N. Y., has while Iodostathene chocolate tablets are being given to goitrous children in the Milwaukee schools once a week. Another method, that of iodizing the table salt is being advocated.

It is being generally conceded that a deficiency of iodine is the cause of the swelling of the thyroid gland which is commonly known as goiter. Many Appleton physicians have given considerable study to the development of goiter prophylaxis and would be cooperative in securing some means of goiter prevention for Appleton. They have not advocated any one method.

Arthur J. Hall, city chemist in charge of the city water supply, said that the adding of sodium iodide to Appleton's drinking water could be done very easily and without much cost. The method which Mr. Hall said is being used is the addition of one twentieth of a grain of sodium iodide to every gallon of water at two two-week periods during the year. Some places treat the water this way two weeks in June and two weeks in January.

Medical research has established the fact that goiter is developed during the fetal life, around the age of puberty and during pregnancy. The prevention of the development of goiter during pregnancy and in the fetus is recognized as the problem of the attending physician and of public education so that the expectant mother would recognize the necessity of such treatment.

The treatment of goiter developed at the age of puberty is largely a matter to be treated through public health work in the schools. Many problems have faced those who are doing the pioneer work in this field. In many places the rate of goiters in girls is six times the rate in boys so that it has been a question whether both boys and girls should be given the treatment. The method most commonly used in school treatment is the chocolate tablets although iodide in the drinking water has been satisfactory also.

Many advocate the use of iodized salt as better than the water treatment, but he objection raised in both these treatments is that the exact dosage cannot be determined. A few doctors are not in favor of the public health methods but encourage that treatment be given only by an attending physician. That iodine is a preventative and curative medicine seems to be conceded by all doctors.

It is entirely possible that as soon as results have been tabulated in some of the neighboring cities, a survey of the number of goitrous children in the schools will be made. The method to be used after that will be largely determined by the results that have been obtained in other cities.

BLAINE REVERSED ON GAS TAX BILL

Hirst Declares Governor Has Altered His Views on Much Discussed Bill

Stevens Point Wis. — Governor Blaine has completely reversed himself in his recent stand on the gasoline tax proposal, doing so only after strong protests from farmers, laborers, business men and motor vehicle owners. A. R. Hirst, Republican candidate for Governor charged in an address here Wednesday night.

"In the last few days, we have had a deathbed repentance from the present administration on the gasoline tax," Mr. Hirst said. The voice of the protest from farmers, laborers, business men and motor vehicle owners regarding the veto of the gasoline tax by the present administration executive in the last legislature became so overwhelming that the Governor executed a complete about face and discovered that the gasoline tax is a good thing if rightly distributed.

"It is to be righted that he did not open his eyes to the facts in the last session of the legislature and sign the gasoline tax bill, as it would have saved the farmers, home owners and others of the state $7,000,000 in general property taxes in that period."

George Gilman, 506 Cherry-st., has leased the Henry Young residence, 1139 Fifth-st. and took possession Thursday.

SEEK NAMES FOR APPLETON'S NEW JUNIOR SCHOOLS

Board of Public Works Wants Suggestions from Appleton People

Suggestions for names for the two new junior high schools are sought by the board of public works of the common council as a result of its meeting at the city hall on Thursday morning. Routine business was transacted in addition to the discussion of the names for the schools. It is the sense of the board of public works that the people of Appleton do not want the schools to be known definitely as the East End and West End junior high schools, but no effort has been made to find out what people really want. It is possible that the schools should be named after great men as have the Washington, Lincoln, Columbus and Franklin schools in the various districts. It is also possible that the residents of the city would like to have the names of early pioneers of the city linked up with the schools as with the Richmond school in the lower Fourth ward.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS
Many of the country schools have taken names from these locations or names suggested by a characteristic of the surrounding country. It would be possible to name the Appleton schools for the early settlements which went to make up the present city of Appleton.

Names of many men connected with Appleton's early history suggest themselves. Among them might be included Eleazar Williams, whose land was purchased for the site of Lawrence college, William H. Sampson who was the first principal of Lawrence institute. The history of Appleton will produce many names which would be fitting title for the schools. It is also possible that the schools might be named for men still living who have given great service in the educational field.

Suggestions for names for the schools will be welcomed by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., or may be sent to the Post-Crescent at once. The board of public works is anxious to have the names suggested before the evening of July 15.

PLAN PERSONAL CANVASS FOR LAND O' LAKES FUND

Plans for obtaining the balance of the money due on the pledge of Outagamie county to Wisconsin. The Land O' Lakes, Inc., will be mapped out by the publicity and convention committee of the chamber of commerce at a meeting at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. A personal canvass will be made among business men with the assistance of J. T. Kelly, field representative of the lakes organization.

Small Boys Are Identified As Bike Thieves

Two chaps of seven and nine are sadder and wiser Thursday after finding that while Chief George T. "Daddy" Prim of the police department smiles and greets them in passing, he also becomes stern and reproachful when they do wrong, especially a thing so wicked as stealing bicycles.

Finding of a bicycle belonging to Marvin Ludwig, 690 State-st. on Tuesday led the capture of the two boys on Wednesday. They not only admitted their guilt but confessed that they also stole a second bicycle. It belonged to Earl Zimmerman, 1041 Harrison-st., and was taken from the municipal swimming pool Tuesday.

It appears that the boys were so eager to have a bicycle that they could not resist the temptation to steal one. They obtained the Ludwig bicycle first, but shortly afterwards met with a mishap. A truck backed into it while it was standing at a street curb, breaking the front wheel. The owner of the truck had the boys take the bicycle to a repair shop, and he paid for having a new wheel put on. This is what led the police to identify the youngsters, since the shop where the repairs were made was located.

Chief Prim reprimanded the boys severely and gave them their liberty on promise of their mother that their behavior would be watched closely.

BUILDING PERMITS

Only one building permit was applied for from the building inspector on Thursday and there were none on Wednesday. The permit was issued to Edward Franck to build a home at 1210 Franklin-st. the house to be of frame construction, containing six rooms and bath.

MARSTON FINDS GOOD ROADS IN EAST STATES

Charles L. Marston, who with Mrs. Marston has just returned from a several weeks automobile trip through the mountains of northern New York, Vermont and New Hampshire and a visit to Boston and other parts of New England, said he found excellent roads, but no better than in Wisconsin and the system of marking is not as good. The east has had very little rain compared to the rain fall of Wisconsin, he said.

Before And After She Met Policeman

Chicago — Even a broken nose, a fractured rib and a flock of bruises can't keep Rosetta Duncan away from her art.

Swathed in bandages, she limped out on the stage and starts in with her act with her sister, Vivian.

A howl of approval goes up from the audience. And as the crowd cheers, Rosetta dances all the faster. And those "burly cops" out at Cicero, aren't getting a word of sympathy from anybody.

The bandages and the limp tell the story of Rosetta's little run-in with the law in Cicero. Rosetta and Vivian and their brother, Harold, were out for a little drive. A policeman stopped their car for a traffic violation and made them go to the station.

The chief of police insinuated the party had been drinking. That made Rosetta angry.

"Why, Vivian and I never take a drink," she says. "And we never smoke, either."

"Why, we even refused to drink with the King of Spain at the Vanderbilt party for him in London. The king lifted his glass and asked us to drink. We told him we didn't."

"'Might as well,' he said, 'you may be dead tomorrow.' But we refused and we always refuse."

ZIMMERMAN WANTS UNIFORM CAR LAWS

Uniform laws in regard to automobile lights, uniform rules of the road, and a uniform gasoline tax will be urged by Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state, at the Conference of Automobile Administrators of the Middle Western States, which meets at Des Moines this week. Mr. Zimmerman will preside at the conference.

"The complexity of the auto laws in different states is most confusing and in many cases the motorist is subject to injustice through conflicting statutes," Secretary Zimmerman said. "Heads of auto licensing departments have organized to meet and discuss motor law changes designed to eliminate conflict. Our function, is of course, only advisory, but members of the conference are expected to make recommendations to their legislatures."

LAWS CONFLICT

"Under the present laws, motorists driving at night in Illinois are required to dim headlights. When one car crosses the state line, Wisconsin says not to dim the lights. A difference of opinion exists as to whether the bright lights or dim lights are safer, but it is certain that dangerous conditions result when some motorists driving on a highway follow one rule and some another."

The rules of the road in different states are also conflicting. In Wisconsin, the driver at the right has the right of way and the machine at his left is commanded to wait until he has passed.

5 CARLOADS OF ROAD OIL GOING ON CITY STREETS

Street Oiling Carried on More Extensively This Year Than in 1923

This year's program of street oiling is now being carried out in much greater than that of recent years, partly because of the fact that the oil is purchased at a lower price than formerly was paid.

Thus far seven carloads of oil have been ordered and the oil is already on the streets. The work is being done without much hindrance to traffic, only one side of the street is oiling, leaving the other half open for traffic. A heavy coating of sand is being used this season.

M. Connelly, street commissioner, expects that approximately 15 carloads of oil will be needed to oil the streets listed by the council. The city is buying the oil at 5 99-100 cents a gallon, or approximately $600 a car. The council allowed $9,000 in its budget for the purchase of oil, but the price of the oil, together with the cost of putting it on the streets is being urged back by special assessment of the owners of the abutting property. Last year the property owners were taxed 9 cents a running foot. It is not yet known what the tax will amount to this year.

FORM TWO DISTRICTS
The work is being done by street department employees, with the two district superintendents, in Betz and David Betz, in charge. Women Of Fashion Still Are Keen For Necklaces

Women who strive to keep pace with fashion still are partial to necklaces, which have been in vogue for some time, and will continue to be quite the thing for a while longer, according to latest style advices from Paris. With one or two exceptions, Appleton merchants agree that the demand for necklaces of many varieties continues to more than hold its own, although new novelties in jewelry and decorative threaten occasionally to diminish their popularity.

It was pointed out that the cheap imitations of crystal necklaces now on the market may dampen the ardor for the more expensive kinds but it will be a long, cold, dark day when any woman will turn down a string of pearls, especially if it has the marks of high cost on it.

Imported necklaces of white, jade, sapphire, green, red and almost any other colored crystal, to match the gown, are popular during these warm days. Many of the strings are long and there are curious combinations of jet, amber and amethyst that are hard to resist, especially in view of the fact that the prices are not excessive.

Despite the vehemently hurled declarations that woman is and shall be emancipated, there is a curious aversion for that recent novelty of decoration—the slave bracelet. Why this particular ornament should be popular at this age of the free and the untrammelled is hard to explain, but there is a considerable demand for it in Appleton stores.

One of the failures of the present season is the watch for women. Jewelers and department store owners believed there would be a demand for the novelty but it was a flivver. Unseasonable weather which prevented women from wearing spring suits for which the fobs were made is blamed for the fizzle.

The ear ring fad, quite the thing during the winter, has dropped by the wayside but some of the jewelers are optimistically looking forward to a revival in the demand next winter.

Fancy combs, which also were popular last winter, no longer are wanted but bobette combs, which come in clever leather and jeweled cases are quite the rage at this present moment. Barrettes also are taking the place of fancy combs, so the merchants say.

STATE HIGHWAY WORK CUT TO LIMIT, REPORT

Madison—A further reduction in highway forces and expenditures is impossible, if the state highway commission is to carry out the program outlined by state law. John T. Donaghey, state highway engineer, stated in a report on the possibility of retrenchment in activities.

Activities of the commission already have been cut 40 per cent, the report stated. This includes a reduction in the number of employees from 341 to 199 and a reduction in the construction of highways of 500 miles as compared with last year's program.

Only 1,886.52 miles of new highway is projected for this year. In 1923 a total of 2,324.37 miles were built. Federal, state and county work is not receiving the supervision needed from the state, the report states.

"Largest Record Service in Wisconsin"

SO BIG

By Edna Ferber

All this relayed by his secretary at the telephone to Dirk at his desk. He jammed his cigarette-end viciously into a tray, blew a final infuriated breath of smoke, and picked up the telephone connection on his own desk. "One of those damned temperamental near-artists trying to be grand," he muttered, his hand over the mouthpiece. "Here, Miss Rawlings—I'll talk to her. Switch over."

"Hello, Miss—uh—O'Mara. This is Mr. DeJong talking. I much prefer that you come to my office and talk to me." (No more of this nonsense.)

"Her voice." "Certainly, if you prefer it. I thought the other would save us both time. I'll be there at four-thirty." Her voice was leisurely, low, rounded. An admirable voice. Restful.

"Very well. Four thirty," said Dirk, crisply. Jerked the receiver onto the hook. That was the way to handle 'em. These females of forty with straggling hair and a bundle of drawings under their arm.

The female of forty with straggling hair and a bundle of drawings under her arm was announced at four-thirty to the dot. Dirk let her wait five minutes in the outer office, being still a little annoyed. At four-thirty five there entered his private office a tall slim girl in a smart little broad-tail jacket, fur-trimmed skirt, and a black hat at once so daring and so simple that even a man must recognize its French nativity. She carried no portfolio of drawings under her arms.

Through the man's mind flashed a series of unbusinesslike thoughts such as: "Gosh!... Eyes!... That's way I like to see girl dress... Tired looking... No, guess it's pretty... No, she isn't... yes, she... Aloud he said, "This is very kind of you, Miss O'Mara." Then he thought that sounded pompous and said, curtly, "Sit down."

Miss O'Mara sat down. Miss O'Mara looked at him with her tired deep blue eyes. Miss O'Mara said nothing. She regarded him pleasantly, quietly, composedly. He waited for her to say that usually she did not come to business offices; that she had only twenty minutes to give him; that the day was warm, or cold; his office handsome; the view over the river magnificent. Miss O'Mara said nothing, pleasantly. So Dirk began to talk, rather hurriedly.

Now this was a new experience for Dirk DeJong. Usually women spoke to him first and fluently. Quiet women waited under his silence; voluble women chattered. Paula always spoke a hundred words to his one. But there was a woman more silent than he; not sullenly silent, nor heavily silent, but quietly, composedly, restfully silent.

"I'll tell you the sort of thing we want, Miss O'Mara," he told her. When he had finished she probably would burst out with tree or four plans. The others had done this. "When he had finished she said, 'I'll think about it for a couple of days while I'm working on something else. I always do. I'm doing an olive soap picture now. I can begin work on yours Wednesday.'"

"But I'd like to see it—that is, I'd like to have an idea of what you're planning to do with it." Did she think he was going to let her go ahead without consulting his judgement?

"Oh, it will be all right. But drop into the studio if you like. It will take me about a week. I suppose I'm over on Ontario in that old studio building. You'll know it by the way most of the bricks have fallen out of the building and are scattered over the sidewalk." She smiled a slow wide smile. Her teeth were good but her mouth was too big, he thought. Nice big warm kind of smile, though. He found himself smiling, too, sociably. Then he became businesslike again. Very businesslike.

"How much do you—what is your—what would you expect to get for a drawing such as that?"

"Fifteen hundred dollars," said Miss O'Mara.

"Nonsense." He looked at her then. Perhaps that had been human. But she was not smiling. "You mean fifteen hundred for a single drawing?"

"For that sort of thing, yes."

"I'm afraid we can't pay that, Miss O'Mara."

Miss O'Mara stood up. "That's my price." She was not at all embarrassed. He realized that he had never seen such effortless composure. It was he who was fumbling with the objects on his flat-topped desk—a pen, a sheet of paper, a blotter. "Goodbye, Mr.—DeJong." She held out a friendly hand. He took it. Her hair was gold—dull gold, not bright—and coiled in a single great knot at the back of her head. low. He took her hand. The tired eyes looked up at him.

"Well, if that's your price, Miss O'Mara, I wasn't prepared to pay any such—but of course I suppose you top-notchers do get crazy prices for your work."

"Not any crazier than the prices you top-notchers get."

"Still, fifteen hundred dollars is quite a lot of money."

"I think so, too. But then, I'll always think anything over nine dollars is quite a lot of money. You see, I used to get twenty-five cents apiece for sketching hats for Gage's."

"And now you've arrived. You're successful."

"Arrived! Heavens, no! I've started."

"Who gets more money than you do for a drawing?"

"Nobody, I suppose."

"Well, then?"

"Well, then, in another minute she smiled again her slow wide smile; turned to leave. Dirk decided that while most women's mouths were merely features this girl's was a decoration.

She was gone. Miss Ethelinda Quinn et al., in the outer office, appraised the costume of Miss Dallas O'Mara from her made-to-order footgear to her made-in-France millinery and achieved a lighting mental reconstruction of their own costumes. Dirk DeJong in the inner office realized that he had ordered a fifteen-hundred-dollar drawing, sight unseen, and that Paula was going to ask questions about it.

"Make a note, Miss Rawlings, to call Miss O'Mara's studio on Thursday."

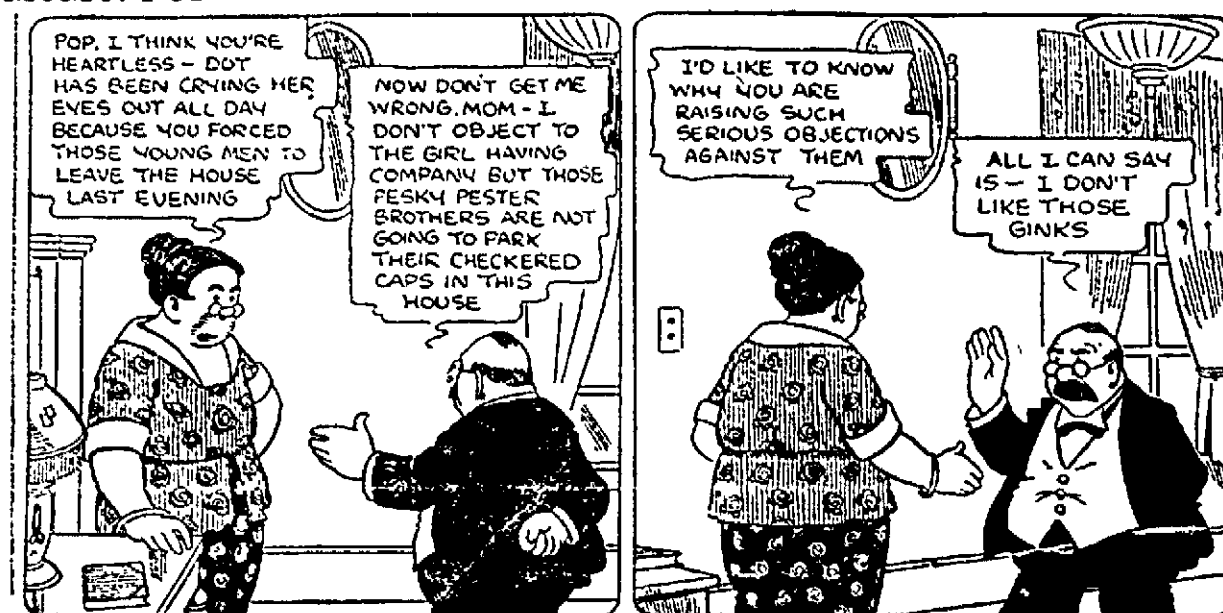

In the next few days he learned that a surprising lot of people knew of a surprisingly good deal about this Dallas O'Mara. She hailed from Texas, hence the absurd name. She was twenty-eight—twenty-nine—thirty—thirty-six. She was beautiful. She was ugly. She was an orphan. She had worked her way through art school. She had no sense of the value of money. Two years ago she had achieved sudden success with her drawings. Her ambition was to work in oils. She toiled like a galley-slave; played like a child; had twenty beaux and no lover; her friends, men and women, were legion and wandered in and out of her studio as though it were a public thoroughfare. You were likely to find there at any hour any one from Bert Colson, the blackface musical comedy star, to Mrs. Robinson Gilman of Lake Forest and Paris; from Leo Mahler, first violin with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, to Fanny Whipple who designed dresses for Carson's. She supported an assortment of unlucky brothers and spineless sisters in Texas and points west.

Papermakers Will Try To Shunt Pails Into Second Place In Loop

Two Ties Are Bound to Be Broken Sunday in McGilligan Circuit But Several Others May Result.

HOW THEY STAND

	W	L	Pct.
Nee-Menasha	7	2	.778
Shelbygan	7	2	.778
Oshkosh	5	4	.556
Green Bay	5	4	.556
Appleton	4	5	.444
Fond du Lac	3	6	.333
Kaukauna	1	8	.112

SUNDAY'S SCHEDULE
Nee-Menasha at Appleton.
Oshkosh at Green Bay.
Kaukauna at Fond du Lac.

Two ties are fated to be broken up Sunday afternoon in the State league. The Chaires, disputing the Rushies claim to first, will be idle while the Twin Cities invade Appleton. Oshkosh and Green Bay fight it out for third, and the Cardinals meet an invasion of Kromer's Kaukauna club.

The Papermakers have been a strong Jinx to the Pails ever since the loop was organized and defeated the league leaders twice this season. Rush will be on the mound for the Twin Sunday, but with even breaks the Appleton club should be able to repeat its previous performances. This would put Shelbygan on top with the Pails second.

Green Bay and Oshkosh are evenly matched on paper, with a slight shade in favor of the Baymen. If Appleton defeats the Pails a tie for fourth with the loser of the Green Bay Oshkosh game will be the result.

Louis' Paris Cardinals are looking for an easy victory over Kaukauna. If this pans out and Appleton should lose, the Papermakers will be tied with the Redlegs for fifth.

HAGEN AND SMITH MEET BRITISH PROS

By Associated Press
Weybridge, England—Walter Hagen and MacDonald Smith, regarded by many in England as America's two best golfers, opposed George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, leading British pros, in the first 36 holes of a 72-hole four-ball foursome for international honors and a purse of 300 pounds at St. George's club, near here Thursday.

The Americans, fresh from excellent rounds over the course Wednesday have been picked to win by most of the English newspapers. Their cool nerve and clever handling of the putter are expected to overcome the long experience of Duncan and Mitchell.

ROD AND REEL

M. J. V. FOSE

INDIANA REELS

During the last few years there has appeared the Indiana Pattern Reel which, by the way, is a large reel and take up a foot or more of line on one revolution of the spool. Then too the line spools itself automatically, running from the first guide nearest the handle of the rod to the reel.

These reels appeared some ten years ago, the first one being a clumsy affair and weighing over a pound, being of steel with the ends forked so as to take up the line. However, in the last few years there have appeared now and then different models of the Indiana pattern reel which are real improvements over the first steel model and are rapidly becoming more popular on account of their spooling qualities, ease of thumbing and lightness in weight, being made entirely of aluminum.

The improved model has an adjustable drag, an entirely new feature, and provides action that is smooth and capable of such fine adjustment that thumbing can be dispensed with if the angler so desires. Then another feature is the line stand which keeps the line upon the spool which heretofore has been one of the drawbacks of this reel, because a stiff, hard braided line would usually coil loosely on the spool and come off. The thumbing is one nicety of the Winona or Indiana pattern reel. This is accomplished on a milled hub with either right or left hand and is particularly "easy" on the thumb—considerably more so than when thumbing a spool full of hard braided silk line on the quadruple multiplying reel.

The reel itself makes an excellent all around tool for either fly or bait casting use and its large diameter is especially useful in keeping the line dry and saving its life for its large diameter and ventilating holes allow the line to dry right on the spool, thus saving the angler the bother of stringing it out in the shade after use.

REPUTED APPLETON ATHLETIC STAR IN NAVY UNKNOWN HERE

Ernest A. Hannegan, Recent Entrain in Naval Academy, Bolsters Teams

Annapolis, Md.—Ernest A. Hannegan, of Appleton, Wis., who gives strong promise of being a three-sport star at the Naval academy, entered the institution Monday. He starred in football, basketball and baseball at the Central high school of Washington and Severn school.

Owing to the one-year rule at the academy, he cannot engage in varsity athletics until after one year. Hannegan was seen here during the year just closed when he met the naval academy plebe teams in all three sports, and made a fine impression.

He weighs 160 pounds and is fast and strong and is believed to have the makings of a great football back.

Search of available records in Appleton shows no name similar to the one mentioned in the Annapolis report.

Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, who has been stepping high, wide and impressive of late, will be the champion's opponent.

The fight will be 10 rounds with no decision.

Frank Parker of Chicago—Lucky Parker they call him—will be the promoter.

NEW TEX RICKARD
Parker is the new Tex Rickard of the middle west. Parker promoted the Carpenter-Gibbons fight here and it drew a gate of $227,000, a record for a bout in which neither contestant was a champion.

Parker, on July Fourth, had two champions scheduled on the same card here—Harry Greb, monarch of the middies, and Abe Goldstein, boss of the bantams. It was not his fault the card was postponed on account of an epidemic.

Associated with Parker is Floyd Fitzsimmons, a close personal friend of Dempsey.

Generally speaking, you must lay the dough on the line for Mr. Dempsey. Friendships mean little or nothing in his combative career at the box office. There is, however, one exception. Dempsey will go out of his way to fight for Fitzsimmons. He has done it before and the dope is he will do it again.

Fitzsimmons has asked him to accept the Labor Day date here and the feeling is that he will not decline.

Parker, the bank-roll man, is willing to slip the champion $200,000 in crinkly green notes. This is not to be sniffed at in any language. And it is soft money for fighting a stingy less puncher like Renault in a no-decision fight.

The Canadian will sign if the champion comes to terms, as it is believed he will within the next 10 days.

Renault, encouraged by the stano Gibbons made extinct Dempsey at Shelly, and remembering that the awkward Firpo knocked the champion out of the ring, is said to be eager for the match.

Renault doesn't think Dempsey can box well enough to put him away and he has a notion that he will make such a good showing that a return bout, with a rich prize involved, will be inevitable.

EAST CLOSED TO CHAMP
Not that Renault would be fighting the champion Labor Day for nothing. His end, if the bout goes through, will be close to $50,000.

Parker feels that he can spend nearly $50,000 on a Dempsey-Renault match and still make money. The blue sky bowl will seat 40,000. That's amply big enough, with price ranging from $5 to $35.

Another reason to believe this match may go over is that Dempsey hasn't a chance to fight in the east before next winter. Rickard has Firpo and Willis carded for late August. That will be his final going for the season in big league promoting.

RUMORS OF BREAK IN STATE LEAGUE MAY BE BORNE OUT

Fond du Lac Scribe Appears to Have Dope on Imminent Ousting of Kaukauna

Rumors are rife in State league circles that Kaukauna is to be dropped from the list shortly, after which the six remaining clubs will reorganize their schedule and start all over. No definite news on this subject has been allowed to sift out of the meeting which was held in Menasha Tuesday, and it is a matter of speculation what the league moguls planned in that conclave.

Fond du Lac appears to have picked up some "dop," on the situation and the sport writer of the Daily Commonwealth states his surmises and predictions as follows:

"Louis L. E., manager of the Fond du Lac baseball club, Tuesday morning, received an urgent message from President T. E. McGilligan of the Wisconsin State League to attend a meeting of the directors of the circuit at Menasha Tuesday afternoon.

"Paris stated that he was not at liberty to reveal what the contents of the message were, but it is almost generally understood that it is for the purpose of ousting the Kaukauna club from the league.

"On the Fourth of July there were about 55 paid admissions to the game at Kaukauna and last Sunday there were about 78 paid admissions. The Kaukauna team has won only one game all season and their team has been playing such a rotten brand of ball that they did not deserve to win that one."

"If Kaukauna is dropped from the league Tuesday, Manager Paris will have to do some fast digging around for a strong independent club for a game here next Sunday as the Kaukauna tribe is scheduled to appear here on that date. Paris will undoubtedly try to book a game with one of the teams at Mayville, Hartford, West Bend, Oshkosh or Milwaukee to be played on the Rueping park.

"Not only has Kaukauna been losing all of its games and not being able to meet the visiting club's guarantee for their home games, but the other clubs in the circuit all complain that they are no longer a drawing card for the fans and the folks just won't turn out to see a team that plays such a bad game of ball.

"Stormy Kromer, who has been managing the Kaukauna team, has been given two chances to strengthen up his team but has failed. If Kaukauna is dropped there will be six teams left in the circuit and every team will be able to play each Sunday. It will necessitate a revision in the schedule."

BEAR CREEK TIED FOR SECOND PLACE IN BASEBALL LOOP

Galesburg's 16 to 12 Defeat of Embarrass Aids Climbers to New Position

HOW THEY STAND

	W	L	Pct.
Manawa	4	1	.800
Bear Creek	3	2	.600
Embarrass	3	2	.600
Zachow	3	2	.600
Black Creek	1	4	.200
Galesburg	1	4	.200

SUNDAY'S RESULTS
Bear Creek 12, Black Creek 9.
Manawa 13, Zachow 4.
Galesburg 16, Embarrass 12.

Aided by Galesburg's 16 to 12 victory over Embarrass Sunday afternoon Bear Creek advanced to a tie for second place in the Intercounty Baseball league by defeating Black Creek, 12 to 9. The contest was staged at Black Creek and was poorly played on both sides. Both pitchers were hit hard and frequently and poor support further helped to raise the scores.

Black Creek took a lead by scoring a run in the initial stanza, but Bear Creek came back with five in the second, taking a lead which was maintained for the rest of the game, although books of errors kept the result uncertain to the end of the game. The other two contests were not as good as usual, Manawa easily defeating Zachow, 13 to 4, and Galesburg taking a 16 to 12 win from Embarrass.

QUESTIONS
1. Man is on first base with one out. The hit-and-run signal is given. Runner on first gets a good lead on pitch. Batterman hits ball to pitcher, who tries for runner at second but fails, both players being safe. Is batsman credited with a hit? If not, how is play scored.—L. E. O.

2. Runner on first and third and two out when double steal is tried. Catcher throws ball to second baseman. While runner going to second is retired, runner from third crosses plate before final out of the inning is made. Does the run count?—L. P. V.
3. With a runner on first and third and two out the batsman hits safely. Runner on third scores on play, runner on first reaches third in safety, but batsman is out trying to stretch his hit into a double. Runner from third jogged home on the play and had just crossed the plate when the runner was retired at second for the third out of the inning.—L. A. W.

ANSWERS
1. You do not state whether the pitcher made a good throw to second, but I presume he did. Such a play is simply scored as a fielder's choice. The batsman is not credited with a hit, as in all probability he could have easily been retired at first.

2. Run certainly scores if runner from third crossed the plate before the runner from first was retired in his attempt to reach second.
3. The run scores on the single, provided runner crossed plate before runner was retired for third out, trying to stretch his hit into a two-bagger.

AMERICANS HOLD COMFORTABLE LEAD IN OLYMPIC GAMES

United States Athletes Expect to Take First in Hammer Throw and Pole Vault

Paris—The fifth day of the Olympic track and field meet in the Colombes stadium finds the United States leading the other nations by a greater margin than on any previous day, having a total of 135 points as compared with 73 for Finland, her nearest competitor. The other point winners are Great Britain 34½; Sweden 18½; France 13½; Hungary 7½; Switzerland 5; South Africa 5; Norway 4 and New Zealand 4.

Thursday's program is as follows:
3 P. M.—First trials in 400-metre run, finals in hammer throw.
3:30 P. M.—Finals in pole vault.
3:45 P. M.—Finals in 1500-metre run.

5:00 P. M.—Second trial in 400 metres.
5:45 P. M.—Finals in 5,000-metre run.

The second trial in the 10,000-metre walk will also be held in the course of the afternoon.

Of the four events to be concluded Thursday the Americans confidently look forward to taking the best point winning places in the hammer throw and pole vault while the Finnish athletes and their neighbors, the Swedes, have their hearts set on the 1500 and 5,000-metre runs. Thus far only three have offered the Stars and Stripes the Union Jack and blue and white emblem of Finland have been run up on the stadium mast to signify the winning of first places, and there is little likelihood of another being hoisted Thursday afternoon unless Elvin Wide, of Sweden, can finish the 5000-metre run in front of such sturdy long distance stars as Willie Ritola and Paavo Nurmi of Finland, John Rong of the United States and a host of lesser lights mostly from Scandinavia where the popular sports seem to be those demanding stamina above all other winning qualities.

Great Britain, which already has beaten the United States for first place in two events in which all the best competitors came from English speaking stock, will offer the most formidable kind of opposition both to the United States and the Scandinavian countries in the 1,000-metre run.

Lee Fohl's Boston delegates who had shown unexpected strength and the earlier ballots but who later swung sharply to Washington, came back strong when George Sisler released his supporters and made a clean sweep of two consecutive ballots, 5 to 4 and 5 to 0.

Tris Speaker who has been lying back waiting for the leaders to spend their fury, suddenly opened up a conference with Connie Mack, leader of the Philadelphia delegation, and lined up his Athletics on two straight ballots, 3 to 1 and 6 to 3. In the National league, New York and St. Louis and Brooklyn and Chicago passed, rain keeping their delegates from attending. Pittsburgh, however, yielded to Boston and the Braves chalked up an impressive victory, 6 to 3, the Cincinnati Reds leaders of the minority half, succeeding in lining up the Phillies by the same count.

The halfway mark in the leagues has virtually been reached, 76 ballots having been taken and 154 necessary before a choice can be made.

SOUTHEAST MAY GET NEW NATIONAL PARK
Knoxville, Tenn.—The southeast wants a national park, and is likely to get it, too.

A commission appointed by Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, is making a survey of several sites.

Knoxville favors the Great Smoky Mountain region.

This range lies on the line between Tennessee and North Carolina. It's the highest in North America, east of the Rockies. There are 10 peaks rising more than 6000 feet.

Bears and other wild animals still abound. But all are being rapidly killed off. Only national protection can save them.

The Smokies derive their name from the blue haze which envelops them.

Welfare Workers--That Work For Everybody's Welfare

No welfare workers are more deserving of the name than the hundreds of little "workers" which are appearing daily in the A-B-C Classified Section of the Post-Crescent.

These classified ads are continually arranging meetings between buyers and sellers upon mutually favorable grounds—are finding good positions for ambitious workers—are returning lost articles to their owners—are renting desirable property—are, in short, doing a multitude of things which are distinctly and decidedly promotive of public welfare.

You can't find any more conscientious or unselfish workers than Post-Crescent classified ads.

And you can't find all the things you want and need, if you don't consult the Classified Section regularly!

We Ask You To Pay More Attention to Quality — Not More Money for It!
While our lower prices are really lower than are ordinarily enjoyed, it is the quality of the goods to be had here which we would like you to give consideration to. We never permit a manufacturer to take quality out of his product in order to enable us to sell it at a smaller price. Therefore, when buying from us you receive goods of standard quality and pay less money for it. Our buying power does this.

A Big Dollars Worth for Each Dollar
President Coolidge in an address to business men recently said that "the deal in which one side 'gets the best of it' is not good business. It does not promote more business or produce confidence in business generally."
The remarkable growth of this Company, in 22 years from one obscure store to 571 stores scattered from ocean to ocean, proves the President's point.
The Golden Rule has been our guide. For each dollar given to us we have given a big dollar's worth in return.
